Inauguration: January 30th and 31st, 15.00-21.30

Duration: From January 30th to March 12th

Barcelona —

Eva Kaluzova: The Art of Connection

Originally from Brno, Czech Republic, and based in Barcelona for nearly 20 years, Eva Kaluzova is an artist specializing in acrylic painting on canvas. Her work explores themes of connection, inviting viewers into deeper dialogues. Beyond painting, Eva engages in illustration, typography, and game design, pushing creative boundaries. Her art has been showcased in cities like Brno, London, Barcelona, and Valencia.

Xavi Alonso: The Precision of Design

With over 20 years in Barcelona's creative industry, Xavi Alonso excels in graphic design, branding, editorial projects, and game design. Inspired by the Bauhaus movement, his work emphasizes the harmony of form, function, and storytelling. As cofounder of a creative studio with Eva Kaluzova, Xavi contributes a precise and thoughtful approach to this Anthropocene-focused collection.

The exhibition, conceived as a multifaceted exploration of graphic design as a tool for storytelling, seeks to unravel the complex interplay between humanity and the environment. Through a series of previous works and some original pieces produced for the gallery, they examine how visual communication can confront the realities of environmental degradation, technological overreach, and social inequality—while simultaneously proposing new ways of seeing, understanding, and engaging with these issues.

At mono30, their works not only stand as individual contributions to the discourse but also as a collaborative testament to the transformative potential of art and design. By interweaving their disciplines, they amplify the urgency of the Anthropocene's message while showcasing the inherent adaptability and diversity of creative expression. This temporary exhibition underscores how art and design can inspire deeper engagement with the defining questions of our age—an invitation for audiences to reflect on their role within a shared and uncertain future.

Inauguration:

The public is invited to the opening reception on January 30th and 31st at mono30 starting at 5:00 PM, where Eva Kaluzova and Xavi Alonso will be present to discuss his work and creative process.
